Public Reports

WGEA publishes the Public Report, except personal information in whole, or part on the Data Explorer and uses its contents in whole or part for other purposes in electronic or other formats.

Two documents make up your Public Report and can be generated and downloaded after preparing your submission for lodgement:

- Public Report – Questionnaire
- Public Report – Employee Data Tables

The Public Report must be:

- Given to your CEO or equivalent for review, approval and sign off before lodgement.
- Shared in accordance with the Notification and Access requirements under the Workplace Gender Equality Act 2012 (the Act).

Report contacts will be asked to declare in the Portal that all relevant CEO or equivalents have signed the public report.

Detailed information on the requirements to share the public report with your employees, members or shareholders can be found within the online Reporting Guide on Notification and Access requirements.

Gender Equality Standards

If there is a single entity employing 500 or more employees, they must have a policy or strategy in place against each of the six Gender Equality Indicators. More information can be found within the online reporting guide on Gender Equality Standards.

Workplace Overview

Policies & Strategies

Employer policies or strategies on workplace gender equality and the composition of the workforce can be powerful levers for making progress and change. Policies or strategies are most effective when backed up by evidence-informed action plans to address areas of imbalance and inequality. Similarly, targets are achievable, time-framed goals that create mechanisms for accountability and are effective when combined with dedicated actions to help achieve them.

Action on Gender Equality

Gender Pay Gaps

The gender pay gap is the difference in average or median earnings between women and men. It is a measure of how we value the contribution of women and men in the workforce. The gender pay gap is not to be confused with women and men being paid the same for the same, or comparable, job – this is equal pay. Equal pay for equal work is a legal requirement in Australia. However, illegal instances of unequal pay can still be one of the many drivers of the gender pay gap. Closing the gender pay gap is important for Australia's economic future and reflects our aspiration to be an equal and fair society for all.

2.1 Do you have formal policies and/or formal strategies on equal remuneration (pay equity and the gender pay gap) between women and men?

Yes

Strategy

2.1a Do the formal policies and/or formal strategies include any of the following?

To achieve gender pay equity; To close the gender pay gap; To ensure no gender bias occurs at any point in the remuneration review process (for example at commencement, at annual salary reviews, out-of-cycle pay reviews, and performance reviews); To be transparent about pay scales and/or salary bands; To ensure managers are held accountable for pay equity outcomes; To implement and/or maintain a transparent and rigorous performance assessment process

2.2 Have you conducted analysis to determine if there are remuneration gaps between women and men?

Yes

2.2a What type of gender remuneration gap analysis has been undertaken?

Overall gender pay gap analysis to identify the difference between women's and men's average pay and gender composition across the whole organisation

2.2b When was the most recent gender remuneration gap analysis undertaken?

Within the last 12 months

2.2c Did you take any actions as a result of your gender remuneration gap analysis?

Yes

Created a pay equity strategy or gender equality action plan; Corrected instances of unequal pay; Identified cause/s of the gaps; Reviewed remuneration decision-making processes; Reported results of pay gap analysis to the governing body; Reported results of pay gap analysis to the executive; Reported results of pay gap analysis to all employees; Reviewed talent acquisition processes; Developed a strategy to address workforce composition issues – e.g. attracting more underrepresented gender into specific higher-paying roles

You may also provide more detail below on the gender remuneration gap analysis that was undertaken.

2.3 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to employer action on pay equity and/or gender remuneration gaps in your workplace, please do so below.

NobleOak is committed to fair remuneration, benchmarking against the Aon Life Insurance and Superannuation survey to ensure fully competent roles are positioned at the market median. During the 2023-24 reporting period, we made strides in closing the gender pay gap by increasing female representation in front-line teams and senior leadership, and male representation in administration and customer service. Additionally, we monitored gender representation across other various role types and actively worked to eliminate bias in our remuneration processes at commencement, promotion and annual reviews. The average total remuneration gap improved from 20.4% in 2023 to 18.2% in 2024, while the average base salary gap remained stable at 10.4%. Notably, the median total remuneration gap saw a significant reduction from 26.1% to 11.8%, with the median base salary gap also improving from 8.4% to 4.4%. NobleOak's pay gap is mainly driven by gender representation across different role types and market remuneration expectations, rather than unequal pay for the same roles. The gap overall is largely driven by a higher proportion of males in senior leadership and sales roles, while fewer males work in administrative and customer service positions. We actively monitor gender representation and work to eliminate bias in pay decisions during hiring, promotions and remuneration reviews. As we move forward, we will maintain our focus on reducing the gender pay gap within our capabilities, strengthening leadership diversity and applying best practices to ensure that NobleOak remains a fair workplace that values diversity, equal opportunities and prioritises an environment where everyone feels valued, respected and empowered to succeed.

Employee Consultation

Engaging employees through consultation on gender equality issues helps employers to understand the employee experience and to take meaningful action. Employers can use the information they learn through the consultation process to generate solutions that are practical and relevant to their organisation.

2.4 Have you consulted with employees on issues concerning gender equality in your workplace during the reporting period?

Yes

2.4a How did you consult employees?

Employee experience survey; Consultative committee or group; Focus groups; Exit interviews

2.4b Who did you consult?

ALL staff Human resources managers; Management; Employee representative group(s); Diversity committee or equivalent

2.5 Do you have formal policies and/or formal strategies in place to ensure employees are consulted and have input on issues concerning gender equality in the workplace?

Yes

Strategy

2.8 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to employee consultation on gender Equality in your workplace, please do so below.

At NobleOak, we are committed to achieving gender equality by actively involving our employees through multiple channels. We regularly seek feedback through annual engagement surveys, as well as onboarding and exit surveys, using these insights to shape our strategic decisions. Our quarterly internal leadership forums provide a transparent platform for leaders across the business to contribute to decision-making. A key example of this is our October 2024 company-wide survey action planning, where leadership collaborates to review, discuss, and refine survey results before finalising and implementing initiatives – These initiatives are designed to make a meaningful impact across the employee lifecycle - enhancing engagement, improving workplace culture, and supporting overall employee experience. The consultation and development of these initiatives ensure that our actions are guided by diverse viewpoints, creating an inclusive workplace where every employee, regardless of gender feels heard and empowered to share their voice.

Flexible Work

Flexible Working Arrangements

A flexible working arrangement is an agreement between an employer and an employee to change the standard working arrangement, often through a change to the hours, pattern or location of work. Flexible work is a key enabler of gender equality, helps accommodate an employee's commitments out of work and has become increasingly important for employers in attracting and retaining diverse and talented employees.

3.1 Do you have a formal policy and/or formal strategy on flexible working arrangements?

Yes

Policy; Strategy

3.1a Do the formal policies and/or formal strategies include any of the following?

A business case for flexibility has been established and endorsed at the leadership level; Leaders are visible role models of flexible working; Flexible working is promoted throughout the organisation; All employees are surveyed on whether they have sufficient flexibility; Flexible work offerings are available to all employees, with a default approval bias (all roles flex approach); All team meetings are offered online

3.2 Do you offer any of the following flexible working options to MANAGERS and/or NON MANAGERS in your workplace?

3.3 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to flexible working and gender equality in your workplace, please do so below.

At NobleOak, we believe that a strong culture, meaningful connections, and opportunities for learning together are essential to our success. While we embrace flexible working, we also recognise that in-person collaboration plays a key role in executing our strategy, enhancing capability, and maintaining our culture. To support this, we encourage all employees (excluding remote workers and those with formal flexible work arrangements) to work from the office four days per week. However, we understand that this may not always be feasible for everyone. To provide additional flexibility, we offer:

- An additional 'work from home' day where needed.
- Ad hoc flexibility to work from home when required.
- Work-from-home "focus days" for tasks that require deep concentration and
- Flexible Working Hours

Before implementing this policy, the Senior Leadership and People & Culture team engaged with the wider leadership cohort in October 2023 to gather insights and enhance its effectiveness. We conducted a follow-up review in December 2024 and held an additional workshop in February 2025 to realign our approach based on feedback. Our commitment remains strong in fostering a supportive, equitable, and inclusive workplace that meets the diverse needs of our employees while optimising business operations.

Employee Support for Parents and Carers

Paid Parental Leave

Parental leave policies are designed to support and protect working parents around the time of childbirth or adoption of a child and when children are young. Some employers offer universally available parental leave policies, offering equal parental leave for all parents, others offer with a distinction between 'primary' and 'secondary' carers. It's important that it's a policy that's available to all parents, irrespective of gender, recognising the equally important role of all parents in caregiving. Gender equal policies help to de-gender the ideal worker and carer norms, which pervade the workplace and reduce opportunities for women to remain in, or re-enter the workforce.
